Eddie McKinley, Keith Kochersperger, Melinda Kessler, and Sandra Farber (chairman) survey the announcement of the exhibit of historical documents to be presented to the students. Under the spansorship of the council for the first time this year, this committee did the combined work of the auditarium and convocation committees, presenting special assemblies and planning the monthly canvos too. We'll never forget Pruth McFarland (the Negro singer in his wheel chair), the Delco-Remy science show, and Mrs. Duvall's talk on family relationships.

how student leadership gave us a good year

After much planning during the summer, the annual freshman mixer got things off to a good start at the beginning of school.

The members of the Student Council set out in earnest to create better understanding between teachers and students and encourage courtesy, good sportsmanship, and school spirit.

Lowell Strohl was president the first semester and Marlene Mendenhall the second. Student representatives, elected each semester from the home rooms, attended the council meetings and then led discussions the following morning in their respective home room groups.

The standing committees carried on much of the work of the council. The ways and means committee sponsored two projects — selling souvenir basketball tags and tickets to a movie — and managed the concessions at a basketball game. The single fund committee, headed by John Paul Ickes, directed the drive for the seven charity organizations which we support. The orientation committee under Maxine Hall sponsored courtesy week and freshman day. After revisions had been made, the handbook committee, with Joy Moody as chairman, distributed new handbooks.

As new situations arose during the year, additional committees were appointed. Frances Rines handled the sale of milk at noons, and Donna Carlson managed the fan bus to out-of-town ball games. Max Grady was chairman of a miscellaneous committee, which took on all the projects not definitely included in the other committees.

Four students were sent by the council to the high school legislature at Purdue. Lowell Strohl attended as senator and Bonnie Steed, Martha McClung, and Dick Meeker as representatives. An unrehearsed model council meeting was held in the auditorium before the student body. The council financed the luncheon served by the home ec department to the students from Convoy, Ohio, and PHS who debated in the Junior Town Meeting of the Air program.

It was a busy year and a good year for the council, and therefore for all of us.

Each year the Typhoon Stoíf tries to publish an improved yearbook for the students of PHS. Traditionally sponsored by the senior class, the project has for the last few years included juniors and sophomores os assistants on the various staff positions.

Several students gained experience and new ideos by ottending the journalism workshop at Ohio University last summer. Soon after, the layout was drown and definite work on the book began.

The editorial staff, under Jon Stroble, spent mony activity periods, study halls, and long hours at night collecting the pictures and writing the story of the yeor. The selling and distribution of the five hundred books were handled by a business staff headed by Mary Lou Zimmerman.

Now the job is completed. And what is Mrs. Stevenson doing? Why, starting on next year's book, of course!

"Portland's spirit's never dead," and this year the Spirit was certainly alive all right. The editorial staff sponsored by Miss White and the production staff under the direction of Mrs. Gibble published all the news around school in attractive six-page papers every three weeks.

There were special editions for St. Patrick's Day and Easter, and the red and green Christmas issue was especially popular. Several new features were added this year, including the "Hall of Fame" and "Hi PHSers" columns.

Anita Edwards, Myra Jane Freeman, Suzanne Abromson, and Mrs. Gibble put into their work some of the ideas they received from the journalism workshop which they attended at Ohio University last summer. This workshop was particularly helpful in giving new lay-out ideas, suitable school news topics, and columns.

Spencer Whittington and Jon Stroble represented the local Hi-Y Club ot the state troining comp at Delphi, Indiana, lost July. After their return, plons were made for the programs ond meetings of the yeor. Movies were shown at several meetings, and two special meetings were held, one in the fall for the fifteen new members and onother in the spring for the seniors.

A league composed of seven teams from the sixty members played basketboll, and a picked team met the faculty in their annual contest with the Hi-Y. This year the faculty "All Stars" squeezed an overtime win, defeating the Hi-Y "Hotfooters" by a 51-50 score.

Hi-Y letters were aworded to Mike Antles, Max Grady, Bob Kennedy, Bill Linder, Jan Stroble, Alex Wasmuth, and Spencer Whittington.

GAA is the organization which gives all girls in PHS a chance to take part in a program of games and sports.

Last summer the FFA officers attended a training school at the Dunes State Park, the first of its kind in the state. As always, this club carried on many more activities than can be recorded here.

The thirty-eight members took part in the soil conservation program on the Kantner, Tague, and Turner farms rented by the club. So far, this has resulted in an increase in the productivity of the Turner farm 50% in four years.

John Paul Ickes, Max Chenoweth, and Larry Vance received the Hoosier Farmer degree at the state convention at Purdue. John Paul won the district and sectional speech contest and entered in the finals. Larry was district vice-president of FFA.

Ten seniors attended the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago during Thanksgiving vacation. Social events included the annual parent and son banquet and a skating party at Deerfield.

The third period is band class every day, and Room 8 fairly bursts with oom-pah's and tweedle-de-de's, squeaks and crashes, as the eighty-odd band members go through their daily stint. "Brownie" must have the wisdom of Salomon and the patience of Jab ta graom them all into the fine musical organization thot they are. Our hearts swell with pride when we see them go through their formatians at the half during football season, and we love to keep time as they entertain us at every pep session and hame basketball game.

Besides school activities, the band always obliges for cammunity affairs, such as the Halloween parade, Christmas programs, and the Easter bunny parade. They gave three public concerts, selling tickets to help buy four new instruments this year.

Contest-wise, the band played at the state fair and the Bluffton street fair. In April they entered the state band contest at Fort Wayne Central High School.

Outstanding soloists were Bonnie Steed, Pat Linder, Doug Milligan, and Joyce Resur.

The music groups entertained at community

Miss Mount, music supervisor for all the city schools, directs the chorus and choir groups at PHS.

About a hundred and sixty students entered chorus and choir classes this year. Out of this total, three groups were formed: mixed chorus, girls' chorus, and robed choir.

The robed choir appeared at the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter convocations, and the Christmas Community Sing. They gave a Sunday evening concert at the West Walnut Street Church of Christ in March and concerts later in the spring at the E.U.B. Church and the Grange Hall.

The girls' chorus, composed mostly of freshmen, also sang for the Community Sing and the Easter convocation, and for the baccalaureate services.

In the district school band, orchestra, and voice contests at Ft. Wayne, excellent or superior places were awarded to Janet Baldauf, Barbara Loy, and the girl's quartet, composed of Beth Bright, Annabelle Corle, Bonnie Steed, and Marilynmarie Stoner. Barbara and the quartet won superior ratings in the state finals. Letters were awarded to those students completing six semesters of chorus work. (pictures on page 70)

Thirty boys met with Mr. Brown in the music room, if vacant, or if not, in any unoccupied corner, and soon you would hear "the sweetest music this side of heaven" — the boys' glee club. Specializing in the oldies like "That's Where My Money Goes," "Mandy Lee," "When You Were a Tulip," and "Honey," they made a hit every time they appeared. The boys were generous with their time and talents, singing for several school functions, the Masonic family night, the Rotary Club, and other community affairs.

seniors were swamped the last few weeks as Being a senior meant being busy from morning till night. We no sooner got thraugh with one big project than another was waiting for us. During the second semester we all struggled under the weight of writing research papers. Those of us working on the yearbook forgot what it was like to have a free evening. Just as soon as basketball ended, mast of the boys got involved in track and baseball practice. And then came the class play.

We chase "A Dance With Our Miss Brooks," and the dates set for it were May 5 and 6. Mr. Gashert, aur sponsor, directed it, and the cast was as fallows:

For our Christmas play we had given "Bang Goes Christmas." We'll never forget how Sam Shaemaker nearly stapped the show when his Santa Claus disguise began slipping lower and lower! Others in the cost were Katharine Bodle, Allen Spencer, Lowell Strohl, Sue Wright, Phyllis Pensinger, Sid Lay, Sharon Longenecker, Janie Yaeger, Bill Stevens, Sandra Farber, Larry Yeager, Doug Milligan, Sondra Hilfiker, and Max Chenoweth.

Early in March we began to think about awards and scholarships; and when class day committees were announced, we realized that graduation time wasn't far away. Marlene Mendenhall was chosen general chairman; Bonnie Steed was in charge of writing the will; and Bill Linder, the praphecy. We went shapping for our graduation clothes and invited our dates for the junior-senior reception.

In our beautiful blue caps and gowns, we were to attend the closing programs af our year. The Rev. Ewart Talley was chasen to be our baccalaureate speaker; and Mr. J. R. Mitchell, Associate Professor of Education at Purdue, was to deliver our commencement address.

"Senior meeting in the auditarium!" was the annauncement that always summoned us to our class meetings. Here we all are at the meeting where plans far aur class play were discussed.

JCL staged banquet

The fall program in JCL started with a "get acquainted" wiener roast. Regular monthly meetings opened with the Roman custom of discovering whether the gods were favorable for such a meeting and then proceed to a business meeting, followed by games and contests planned by a program committee.

During the Christmas season, the club prepared a basket for a needy family. Latin and Spanish students held a joint Christmas party, and also sang carols for us in the corridors in their respective languages.

The most anticipated event is always the annual Roman banquet held in the spring.

Coaches Wallace, Berry, and Goshert

Portland High School is fortunate in having a fine coaching staff.

Harold Wallace, veteran of ten years with Panther teams, coaches basketball and baseball. William Goshert, who came to Portland last year from Warsaw, coaches the football team and freshman basketball. Since track was revived in 1950, Howard Berry has led the cindermen, while also assisting in football.

Although working in highly competitive situations, our coaches have always maintained friendly relations with the coaches of other schools. They are good examples for us students to follow.

To arouse greater student backing of all Panther teams while practicing good sportsmanship was the chief aim of the cheerleader committee this year.

A Pep Club was organized, composed of approximately a hundred students, who sat in a block at all home games and spearheaded the cheering. At sectional time they formed the center of the cheering block which was so sensational.

In March the committee sponsored an all-school sports dance. Much credit is due Freddie Kist, chairman, for her enthusiasm and hard work on the committee.

how the coaches, students, and fans backed

All the way from the opening kick-off in the fall to the last crack of the gun in the spring, the varsity cheerleaders were constantly urging us on to support our teams.

The cheering block at the sectional attracted much attention, and they really looked sharp in their white shirts with purple ties and white gloves. Their precision card formations and thunderous cheering were the result of the untiring efforts of the trio of Warstler, Linder, and Smith.

"Hi-de-hi, hi-de-ho," chant Kay Sue Warstler, Ann Linder, and Carol Jean Smith, varsity cheerleaders.

Goshertmen gained experience and promised

More than sixty boys reported for practice when the call went out last August for the 1954 football campaign. This is the largest number of boys ever to come out and shows the increase of interest in the sport. Freshman and Junior Hi boys are also organized into teams now.

Rugged competition gave the Panthers a rough season, but the spirit of the boys was high. A football clinic, which was held early in the season, helped both players and fans to become more informed on the fine points of the game.

Bill Silvers, junior, was one of the five backs named for the MVC honor team, and Fred Martin, sophomore, placed on the second team as guard.

With the loss of seven lettermen from the 1953-54 squad, the Panthers were faced with a rebuilding job this season. As the record indicates, the lack of experience and height played an important part in the outcome of many games.

Although they were unable to win any of the three tournaments, the Panthers reached the final game in two of them, and the semi-finol game of the other, and managed to outscore their opponents, 1273 to 1251 in the season's games.

The three returning lettermen of the Panthers made the MVC all-star team. Bill Silvers placed on the first team, Tom Freeman made the second team, and Don Black received honorable mention.

Thinlies set records

The Panther trackmen under the direction of Coach Howard Berry enjoyed another highly successful season.

They climaxed their year by setting seven school records: Larry Chittum in the 880 yard run; Dick DeHoff in the mile; John Gegenheimer in the low hurdles; Adlie Hedges in the shot put and the high jump; Bill Hudson in the broad jump; and the team composed of Rod Sipe, Norm Gillette, Larry Chittum, and Tom Freeman in the mile relay.

Last spring the Panther baseball team experienced one of the greatest seasons on record, defeating such rugged opponents as the Marion Gionts, Royerton Redbirds, and Union City Wildcats. Showing great pitching talent and outstanding fielding ability, the Purple were defeated only three times in their successful campaign.

FINCH HURLS 4 NO-HITTERS

The Panthers were led through the season by the superb pitching and hitting of a potential major leaguer, Bud Finch. Bud, who has signed a contract with the Baltimore Orioles, pitched four no hitters, three one hitters, and five two hitters in his high school career.

Besides allowing relief from school studies, gym classes promote sparts-manship, provide a chance for rec-reation, and strengthen our bodies. A variety of activities offers a sport for every student.

The affairs of the Portland-Wayne Township Schools are in the hands of o competent group of people. They meet the first and third Monday evenings of each month in the superintendent's office to transact business relative to the running of the schools.

Mrs. Ranald, vice-president of the Indiana School Boards Association, attended the nationol meeting held in St. Louis in February.

Mr. West, newly elected trustee of Wayne Township, began his term on the board in January. Mr. Hutchens, also representing the township, was reappointed ot that time.

A long range building program was started several years ago which the board hopes to continue by completing one new unit each five years. This year also they will study the interpretation and application of the new laws which have been passed by the State Legislature.

Martho McClung, Ruth Ann Weaver, Jon Stroble, Lowell Strohl (voledictarian), and Mary Lou Zimmerman (salutatorian) contemplate their probable results after taking those owful scholarship tests.

At the head of our class was Lowell Strohl, with an average of 4.000. Lowell, a member of the last mid-year class to graduate from PHS, entered Earlham College at the beginning of the second semester.

Second in the class was Mary Lou Zimmerman with an average of 3.928.

The other members of the top ten according to their scholastic ranking were as follows: (3) Lola Ann Louks, (4) Martha McClung, (5) Jan Stroble, (5) Ruth Ann Weaver (tie), (7) Marlene Mendenhall, (8) Laurence Simons, (9) Bonnie Steed, (10) Larry Vance.

Mental abilities — aptitude tests — vocational interests —We never realized how many things there were to know about ourselves. College night and the two career day programs opened up new ideas to us. We listened to the many speakers and tried to concentrate on what we should do about our future.

More than a third of us plan to go to college, anywhere from Ohio to Idaho, and twenty-seven members of the class took the state scholarship tests for Indiana colleges. Five Portland Foundation scholarships were available, as well as those offered by Tri Kappa, Psi Iota Xi, and the Lions Club. John Porter received the first alternate appointment to West Point and went to Fort Sheridan for a week of tests.

Passing Fashions

The year had its quota of fads. When the seniors were not wearing white coveralls, we were likely to appear in knee length socks and Bermuda shorts. Tweed skirts for girls and pegged pants for boys were the style. V-necked sweaters were popular, and "steadies" often wore the same color. We danced the mambo, quoted George Goeble, and hummed the latest tune on the "Hit Parade."

Mr. Gashert (sponsor), Dave DeHoff (treasurer), Sandra Farber (vice-president), and Robert Kennedy (president) confer before the next senior class meeting.
